

Cobb-Greetham New Director Of Native American Studies at Oklahoma University

Norman – Amanda Cobb-Greetham was named the Coca Cola Professor of Native American Studies and director of the Native American Studies Program in the University of Oklahoma College of Arts and Sciences.

Cobb-Greetham is a member of the Chickasaw Nation of Oklahoma and is a graduate of OU. She comes to the university from the English Department at Oklahoma State University.

Amanda Cobb-Greetham

After receiving her doctoral degree in English from OU, Cobb-Greetham has held several academic appointments, including the University of New Mexico, where she founded the Institute for American Indian Research. From 2007 to 2012, she served the Chickasaw Nation as administrator of the division of history and culture. Also, she helped launched the state-of-the-art Chickasaw Cultural Center in Sulphur, Okla., and directed the museums, archives, language programs and the first tribal publishing house of its kind, the Chickasaw Press, which received the Harvard Award for Excellence in Tribal Self-Governance under her guidance. She continues to serve as editor.

Cobb-Greetham is the author of Listening to Our Grandmothers' Stories: The Bloomfield Academy for Chickasaw Females, 1852-1949, which was selected as a winner of the American Book Award as well as the North American Indian Prose Award. In addition, she co-edited a collection of essays with Amy Lonetree titled The National Museum of the American Indian: Critical Conversations, released by the University of Nebraska Press in 2008.

Her current research project, For Better, For Worse: Oklahoma's American Indian Identity, examines the state of Oklahoma's American Indian identity as it is manifested in popular culture, including commemorations, sculpture, performances, and museums beginning with the famous "marriage" of Miss Indian Territory to Mr. Cowboy Oklahoma on the steps of the Capitol at the time of statehood.

Established in 1994, the Native American Studies Program is housed in the College of Arts and Sciences. It is an interdisciplinary studies program with classes in history, American Indian languages, law, anthropology, cultural communication and literature. For more information, visit cas.ou.edu/nas.

PARALEGAL SERVICES NOW AVAILABLE

The Sac and Fox Nation Tribal Court is pleased to announce that paralegal services are now being offered at the Sac and Fox Nation Justice Center. This service is to help alleviate the pressure placed on the prose litigants, litigants who may not be able to afford the luxury to hire legal assistance. Without the aid of legal expertise, litigants often enter the judicial system unprepared for the complicated process and may leave dismayed by the results. In recognition of this problem, the Sac and Fox Nation Tribal Court and Oklahoma Indian Legal Services have been in collaboration to provide the tribal members with a paralegal to offer assistance to prose litigants in preparing their legal documents and understanding the judicial process.

The paralegal provided through Oklahoma Indian Legal Services is on-site three (3) times a month to assist enrolled tribal members with preparation of legal documents, help in understanding the judicial process, assisting court administration in issuing Orders and Decrees, directing litigants to outside organizations for further assistance, preparation of wills and referrals for further legal advice.

Contact the Court Clerk's Office at 918-968-2031 for dates and times.
